A Dog Walks Into A Nursing Home. In late adolescence, Pransky was bored: she needed a job. and so Sue Halpern decided to give herself and her underoccupied Labradoodle a new leash—er, lease—on life by getting the two of them certified as a therapy-dog team. Pransky proved to be not only a terrific therapist, smart and instinctively compassionate, but an unerring moral compass as well.

Sue Halpern. Pransky returned to the nursing home with both legs wrapped in flesh-colored bandages that extended from her elbows over and around the bottom of her paws, which made it look like she was wearing support hose. But not to Joe. Joe, who almost never put on the prostheses that leaned up against the wall of his room, looked at Pransky's bandages, then pointed to his own.
