U.S. Army combat engineers played vital roles in many notable World War II actions. For instance, during the June 6, 1944, D-Day landings at Omaha Beach, engineers cleared a path through German fortifications to help GIs escape the murderous enemy fire and move beyond the beach. During the Battle of the Bulge, they not only fought as infantrymen but also, on December 18, 1944, blew up a key ...
