I'm Steven Montano, an accountant who thinks he's a writer, based mainly on the fact that I managed to get a few D&D adventures published roughly 2,000 years ago. I've been writing as a hobby for almost 20 years. I'm currently hard at work on the "Blood Skies" project, a post-apocalyptic dark fantasy fiction series. It has magic. And guns.

Steven Montano is an author, geek, and accountant. He also spends way too much time drinking wine, hiking, and watching bad 80s movies. Steven is the author of The Last Acolyte, the Blood Skies series, the Skullborn Trilogy, and something black...

Amazon.com: Blood Skies Omnibus, Vol. 1 eBook: Montano ...

Blood Skies is the first book in a series that reads like an epic fantasy but is set in a world carved from the depths of hell. It's a dark and death filled shadow of a world, and literally no one seems safe. I'm in love with the lore that Steven created for the world in Blood Skies.

Steven Montano (Author of Blood Skies) - Goodreads

The action sequences, for which Steven Montano is rightly becoming recognised as something of a modern master, are also back, also better than ever. Montano's twisted and despoiled Earth is as dark and dangerous as ever. But this time the storyline is less linear, more unpredictable, and in Soulrazor it shines in its own right.

Each book in the BLOOD SKIES series has its own heartbeat and personality. Though all three books have their own storyline, Mr. Montano's construction and connection from one to the other is superb. Unlike its peers, SOULRAZOR takes the reader time traveling at warp speed through the eyes and visions of both Eric Cross and Danica Black.
