This might be a new series being launched from the Whirlwind Series. In this story we have a luxury Space Liner on its maiden voyage. A hyperspace trap is sprung by aliens and the story begins. The book is well written. The basic idea of the story is ageless. I don't think the story is up to the usual Nuttall standard.

Remove the necklace and change the iceberg for a hyperspace storm and we're talking about The Hyperspace Trap. Christopher Nuttall has a problem with his view of the reader - basically we are all a bit dim and can't follow the details of his plots. To this end we are repeatedly told key bits of information to ensure we understand.

When an alien armada destroys the United Earth Space Force and takes control of the human homeworld, newly reinstated Captain Annette Bond must take her experimental hyperspace cruiser Tornado into exile as Terra's only interstellar privateer. She has inferior technology, crude maps, and no concept of her enemy, but the seedy underbelly of galactic society welcomes her so long as she has prizes to sell and money to spend.
